NetzMonitor includes an integrated macro recorder. It will record mouse clicks and keyboard keystrokes while you are performing online tasks. It can create macros that will automatically perform a number of commands. Network Monitor: NetzMonitor provides network connectivity check and can be used to view your current network status. It includes an interface to your local network adapter and can be used to determine a device's net connection status. Internet Connection Status: The Internet Connection Status Window provides a visual tool for checking your connection status to the Internet, whether you are connected to a private or public network, the number of times you have been disconnected from the Internet, the amount of data transferred in your current session, and the number of times you have sent and received data. Remote Management: NetzMonitor allows you to remotely control your computer from any other computer on your network. If you have any questions, or require additional information about the product, please contact the manufacturer or distributor directly. @9jardos: Why does it need to be multi-language? You can do the same thing in one language. And with a version in many languages you could spread it even more! It would be better to have many languages. @9jardos: I only have one computer. I'm not used to that. Is there a desktop edition? Also, I noticed on its main page it says the program is not free. How can I get the program free? I don't like paying for software but I need this tool to check the reachability of my site. I've downloaded it (about 2.5 GB in size) and installed it. It runs and shows the Internet connection status. However, it takes up an immense amount of memory (some 97 MB in memory). But the thing is, when I close it and click on the icon to open it again, it takes up a similar amount of memory (about 97 MB in memory). That's what I mean by memory usage. I noticed that there is a counter. It shows how many times it has been opened and closed. I checked that counter and it's showing "0", but it's actually not zero. It's showing this number as a result of the fact that when I closed it and clicked on the icon to open it again, it took up the same amount of memory (97 MB). I'm using Windows XP Home edition. My computer specs are a: 1.3 GHz Processor, 1d6a3396d6

Install NetzMMonitor, and run it. How to check and edit the list of files: Select "Tools -> Edit the List..." and press "OK" button. Restart your computer. A: I use nslookup from SysInternals to do this. Just pipe nslookup output to a text file.

Regulation of intestinal magnesium transport by cyclic adenosine 3',5'-monophosphate. Acetazolamide, a potent inhibitor of carbonic anhydrase, is known to increase the total intestinal magnesium absorption, apparently by inhibiting the paracellular pathway in the mammalian small intestine. The present experiments were undertaken to examine the effect of cyclic adenosine 3',5'-monophosphate (cyclic AMP) on Mg<sup>2+</sup> transport in vivo by the isolated loop of rabbit small intestine. Mg<sup>2+</sup> absorption was measured as the net flux of Mg<sup>2+</sup> across the serosal to mucosal surface of the loop in a 1-liter anaerobic chamber. The loop containing the serosal medium was either acidified to pH 5.5 or pH 7.4, or incubated for 1 hour in the presence of 8-bromo cyclic AMP (500 microM) or forskolin (100 microM). Mg<sup>2+</sup> transport was measured as the influx of Mg<sup>2+</sup> across the serosal surface of the loop. The
