I have been trying to implement this simple recursive algorithm and it's just not working. function recursive(input) { if (input!= "") { console.log(input); if (input.startsWith('+')) { return recursive(input.substring(1)); } else { return recursive(input); } } } var input = 'abc'; recursive(input); The console shows me a blank screen when I use it. I tried a couple of other ways but the result is the same. I don't know what I'm doing wrong. How should I fix it? A: You should use recursion to process the string recursively. If you simply use your recursive(input) function, it will return the current value of input when it reaches the end of the function. For example, if the input is "abc", it will return the value of the input when it reaches the end of the recursive(input) function. And this happens because you return it after the if statement. Therefore, you need to change the recursive(input) function to this: function recursive(input) { if (input!= "") { console.log(input); if (input.startsWith('+')) {
