A Republican challenger in a House primary upset in Ohio is facing backlash for defending a campaign ad showing her taking money from billionaire Charles Koch. Teresa Fedor, who is facing off against former Columbus city councilwoman Shirley Richard in Ohio's First Congressional District, defended the ad, which was sponsored by the Republican Liberty Caucus, and said she was willing to take money from any source that would help her win the election. "Let me make this perfectly clear, Teresa Fedor is willing to take every single dollar that comes her way because Ohio is in a state of emergency," National Republican Congressional Committee spokesman Jesse Hunt said in an interview with Politico, asserting that she is "too liberal and radical" to represent Ohio in Congress. While Richard has received the vast majority of the money for the seat, recent polls show her with an extremely thin lead over Fedor, and the race could be close all the way to the general election in November. ADVERTISEMENT “I’m going to be running my campaign the way that the people of Columbus elect me, regardless of the campaign finance laws of the United States,” she said in an interview with The Columbus Dispatch. “I’m here to compete. If the RLC is willing to fund my campaign and that’s the way they see it, then that’s what I am going to need to do to d0c515b9f4

The Blaupunkt TravelPilot GT is the most advanced navigation system on the market to date,â says Markus Spurrock, Blaupunktâs senior vice president. âIn addition to its accurate maps, the TravelPilot GT will once again raise the bar with an extensive and high-quality road book.â With the current new Premium edition, customers can choose between three models of the Blaupunkt TravelPilot GT: the TravelPilot GTX, the TravelPilot GL and the TravelPilot GLS. The Blaupunkt TravelPilot GTX has features including a car charger, a 1,100-watt high-power amplifier, a charge indicator and a microphone. The TravelPilot GL is the option with the smallest size battery. It has all features of the TravelPilot GTX plus an inductive charging base. The TravelPilot GLS is the high-performance model with a 700-watt amplifier and a 1,500-watt high-power charging station. Price and Availability All three models will be available online
