Battle Bolts is a turn-based strategy game where up to four players control a team of space mercenaries in an arena where there is no mercy. Battle between the mercenaries is a battle of wits, brains, and chess-like tactics. Use your action moves like dash and strafe to pull unexpected stunts and confuse your opponents! The mercenaries have a wide selection of action moves to take advantage of and they've got a pretty good idea of what you're up to. They'll be using their action moves, board elements, and power-ups to predict where you're going, so you have to be ready. And remember, you're not the only battle star of the universe, so you're not the only team of mercenaries out there fighting! Just like now. But seriously this game is awesome. This is basically the video game version of Giant's Pickup Basketball, since it is point to point and you are the only one on your team. You start off at the "cauldron" and you pick up a teammates: the catcher, the third base, the power hitter and the outfielder. Then you pick up a round of at least three other teammates and you run to your basket and shoot the ball and hope that your team can score a goal. Overall the graphics are amazing: very colorful, and the actual game play is pretty fun. Granted it does get repetitive after a while, but it still has a lot of replay value. If you're an athlete or a sports junkie or just like competitive fun with video games, I highly recommend trying this game out, even if only to pick up a new mascot. I am only giving this game a four because I feel like the game is a bit overrated. However the fact that you get real live video "greyskys" (who will keep you informed of all your moves while you play) is awesome. I must

What's new in The Dark: Survival RPG:

Hecatomb () is a neo-Pagan practice of the dead commemorating the dead, practised widely in Europe in the Middle Ages. The term first appeared in the 18th century English translation of the sixth-century (AD) treatise On the Sacred Burning of Sacrifices known as the Colonia Liberalia. Origin Hecatomb is linked with human sacrifice in other ancient cultures, from ancient Greece, Ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia to ancient Aztecs and Inca of Peru, both of the civilizations practicing human sacrifice. The word hecatomb is from hecatombe, a ritual performed by Ancient Greeks and Romans to honour dead relatives of the priestly Mater Matuta, by sacrificing a bull. It is a hecatomb that dies for the person to be honoured. The word hecatomb in this context is used to describe a ceremony of commemoration celebrated annually in the autumn. It refers to the festival of the honoring of the Mater, or Mother Goddess, at Colonia Liberalia on 1 November. This bloody rite has been revived on an annual basis since the fifth century, when Saint Germanus of Auxerre, bishop of Autun in France, asked the prefect and governor to be allowed to enact it "on the fourth day before the Kalends of November", and when Pope Leo the Great succeeded in ridding the church in the capital of the Roman empire of its feasts of blood; he ordered all sacrifices to cease, including the hecatomb. As late as the sixth century, this ancient religious practice had continued in Holy Roman Empire and France, with the ritual starting as early as 25 October. Colonia Liberalia The first official Colonia Liberalia bull was established by the pope in 330 AD for the Roman people. Pope Leo I authorized the people to celebrate Colonia Liberalia, the Festival of the Mother goddess, on 10 November. The Colonia Liberalia is now celebrated throughout the world on November 1. Practices The celebration of the hecatomb commemorated the victims of battle at the beginning of the year or year anniversary of death. The deaths of the victims were not commemorated as distinguished from the commemoration of the victims in the hecatomb. This commemorative service of the hecatomb was to remember future deaths. Events At Colonia Liberalia, a procession was held in a sacred grove and animals
