I want to be able to modify a piece of the form (form) to pass the file input value as a parameter to a partial. So I want to be able to dynamically add the file input field and the associated js with the form data in an edit mode. My html for this looks like this: `$(function () { $('#myPartialContainer').load('#{render_to_string url: :to_import_posts_url, format: :json}') });` However, my problem is trying to pass the file input element as a parameter to the partial. There is no validation on this part of the form so I need to be able to make sure 0cc13bf012

But each line has colons in it (I have to remove those colons and import file into my SQL server database). The input is batch file. Can anyone give me a hint how to do it? Thank you A: I'm not sure how this would work in the context of a batch file, but this can be done using sed: `sed '1,5d' infile >outfile` This will edit the first five lines of infile and place that output in outfile. If the lines have colons in them, then you could do the following: `sed '1,5d' infile | while read ln do [-n "$ln"] && ln="{ln//:}" || ln="$ln" sed '1,5d' infile | grep "$ln" | sed 's:// /g' >>outfile` done If you don't want to remove the : in the output file, you could use the parameter substitution instead: `sed '1,5d' infile | while read ln do [-n "$ln"] && ln="{ln//:}" || ln="$ln" sed '1,5d' infile | grep "$ln" | sed 's:// /g' >outfile-$ln.tmp mv outfile-$ln.tmp outfile done` Q: Wait for callback and return array of objects Is this the correct way of waiting for the callback and return an array? If so what is the best way to approach this. I want to be able to pass in an array of objects. This needs to be maintained on the server side. Thanks `function foo(array) { return MyService.getData(array)`

Download Autocad 2003 Full Crackl.Q: Using Multipartite disjoint sets as rows I have a csv file with 100k rows, containing 7 fixed columns each. Each row (i.e. each line in the file) represents one of seven groups. Each group contains between 100 and 1000 lines. What I'm trying to do is to count the number of lines which contain columns A-B and A-G, as they represent the same group. I'm not able to come up with an equation though. The problem is that each line belongs to one group, and not each group to a certain line. I thought of creating a hash from the binary representation of the seven letters (1 = A, 0 = B,...) and then finding the intersection between the different hashes for each row, so that I would get a smaller hash and I could then count the number of 0s. I'd then discard the row if the hash for any one of the seven letters is not 0. However, this sounds impractical, because I'd have to generate a lot of intermediate hashes, and then still need to find the intersection between all of them. My last idea was to just concatenate all the lines and sort them, then look at the first 100. If the first 100
