is this output? A: the: "Â· 1st StudioSiberian Mouse Custom MSH 45avi", is the result of the HTML not being terminated properly. Does your PHP have ini_set("display_errors", 1); error_reporting(E_ALL); ini_set("display_errors", 1); error_reporting(E_ALL); at the top? If not, try that, and put the output into a file called test.txt, and see if that is the same thing you're seeing in your output file. Most like your php version does not support the eof() function. Most versions of PHP (5 and up) do support the libeof() function. This provides identical functionality to eof() but does so in a way compatible with all older php versions. You can get libeof() from your php version's core library using include_once('/core/libeof.inc.php'); NOTE: be aware that libeof() may be confusingly named. There may be a libeot() function available to you, or a libef() function that may do similar thing. MEMPHIS, Tenn. -- A Memphis man is charged with shooting his wife after they got into an argument over whose home was more valuable. The shooting happened Tuesday night inside the couple's home on Liza Court. Police say when officers arrived, they found 42-year-old Robert Lee Harvey shot twice inside the home. He was taken to Methodist Hospital and later booked on a domestic violence charge. Harvey told officers at the scene that his wife, 24-year-old Kierra Harvey, had shot him, but officers were unable to find the weapon.
Kierra Harvey was arrested and charged with domestic violence and aggravated assault. She was taken to the jail and was in custody as of Wednesday morning.Q: What

It seems that you have a trailing carriage return that is not causing the output, because strings are not split at whitespace when printed. So, you can use a simple trim() to get rid of it. Access to maternity services and preterm birth at the Canadian Coast Guard base in San Juan, Puerto Rico. The objectives of this study were to explore 1) access to health services by women working at the Canadian Coast Guard (CCG) Base in San Juan, Puerto Rico (PR) and 2) the extent to which women were exposed to the deleterious effects of smoking and illicit drug use during pregnancy. Women exposed to abortion-related procedures were excluded because they are a subgroup who often have barriers to accessing health care. Women working at the CCG base who became pregnant (N = 185) were interviewed, and singleton live births from 2000 to 2009 were extracted from the electronic medical records of the CCG base to determine if they met criteria for preterm birth (PTB). One-fifth of the women interviewed had been pregnant before, and one-third were pregnant when the interviews took place, with the remainder being pregnant for the first time during the interviews. Respondents to the interviews were more likely to have private insurance, to have high income, and to have a partner who was better educated than the women who were not interviewed. Although only 3.1% of the women interviewed had a PTB, the rate for white women was more than twice the national average. Women who reported exposure to secondhand smoke and/or drugs in the workplace were about twice as likely to have a PTB as those who did not report such exposure. Although the study cannot establish causation, these findings suggest that access to health care is an important predictor of PTB. Further research is needed to understand the barriers pregnant women working at the CCG base encounter accessing health services and to understand how illegal drugs and secondhand smoke affect pregnancy outcomes.

Q: How to find the number of possible sequences of n consecutive pairs? For example, if $n=3$ and $X=\{ "AA", "BA", "CA", "AA", "AC", "CA", "BA" \}$ The total number of possible sequences is $|X| = 7$ A: Observe that the sequence $(X_n)_{n \in \mathbb{N}}$ where $X_n = \{n-1, n-2, \dots, 1\}$ is 6d1f23a050
