Rome (CNN) -- Sergio Castellano gloved his hands as he drove up the steep, windy road to the top of the Col du Tourmalet in France last November. "It was very cold," he said, his gloved fingers playing with his wedding band. "I was a bit nervous. That road is very dangerous, you know." After a narrow escape in previous years, he had driven the car carefully this time, slowing down at blind spots. When he reached the summit, he put the car in c6a93da74d
