i use the revit bimone app. it works great. i export a project in the bimone app and go to the properties of the project and in the field list, i change the prefix from the default project prefix to the prefix i want to use. i save the project. thank you for this useful tool. it does a great job to export schedules from revit to excel. the addin provides some cool options that help in different workflows. i really like the way it converts the revit schedule totals to excel sum function. however, there is an issue: revit has several types of schedules (schedule/quantities, material takeoff, view lists, sheet list..). the addin doesn't enlist all of them in its shedules list. in fact, it doesn't detect the material takeoffs at all, hence it can't export them to excel. so, i would like to ask you to add support for them. thank you for this useful tool. it does a great job to export schedules from revit to excel. the addin provides some cool options that help in different workflows. i really like the way it converts the revit schedule totals to excel sum function. however, there is an issue: revit has several types of schedules (schedule/quantities, material takeoff, view lists, sheet list..). the addin doesn't enlist all of them in its shedules list. i'm using revit 2020 and for a while i have been using the schedule export to pdf add-in. the problem is it does not export all of the revisions so i've had to open each revision and export to a separate pdf. that works great but it seems like a lot of work for something that should have been built into revit.
