Vague interface, especially for converting batches of files Conversion of one file only, not one for each JPG Is only designed for JPG files Download LinkEveryday people of Tangier are demonstrating their dissatisfaction with the Moroccan government and its policy of restituting stolen lands to tribal Berber people. The land reclamations, sanctioned by King Mohammed VI, are taking place without consent of the population. In Tanger-Med'hit, which saw a popular uprising in 2014, thousands of people are in front of the Interior Ministry calling for the removal of the wall. They are protesting the injustices of the state for the past 30 years, when the government and royalists and white settlers expropriated tribal lands, even though the Berber population was the majority. A long-standing issue for the Saharan region, it is part of a legacy inherited from Spain. The country has been divided for nearly a century in three regions: Western Sahara, the eastern part of the former Spanish Sahara and Western Sahara, which is the richest in natural resources. It is one of the most developed regions in the world in terms of economic development and infrastructures, while the rest of the country is in a state of extreme poverty. However, the economic discrepancy and structural divide is growing day by day, as the former Spanish Sahara's Sahrawi population has been living in a refugee camp in Algeria for almost four decades. Since October 2017, approximately 250 Moroccans have been killed and more than 3,000 injured in the Sahrawi refugee camps. Historically, Morocco has held the western part of the country, known as Western Sahara, as a sort of fiefdom. Ever since Spain sold the region to Morocco for 99 years, the country has used several methods to settle the Sahrawis, including by force. Moreover, the Moroccan army is still engaged in military operations in the West Bank territories, which are occupied by Morocco since 1975. Missions to Sahrawi refugees in Algeria The Moroccan authorities' decision to hand over the Western Sahara to Morocco unilaterally, which has been rejected by the international community, including the African Union and the United Nations, means the Sahrawis are forced to live in two countries. The Sahrawis are not allowed to have any kind of identity. This is why in October 2017, the
